

Anna Mae Hauck

On Tuesday, August 18, 2020, Anna Mae Kegel Hauck, loving mother of seven children, passed away of natural causes at the age of 94.

Anna Mae was born on May 19, 1926 in Lancaster, PA, to Clarence C. and Anna Mae

Kegel. She graduated from Manheim Township High School and worked as a professional seamstress for many years followed by becoming a chef, then full-time caregiver of her father. She was preceded in death by three husbands: Floyd Harrison Binkley, James William Cummings, and Raymond Franklin Hauck. She is survived by four children including Deborah Jean Cummings Diersch, Patrick Lee Cummings, Jamie

Lynn Cummings Stahl, and Ponnalea Hauck Esquivel, and preceded in death her son Floyd Harrison Binkley Jr. and two daughters, Anna Mary Binkley Blakely and Rosemary Binkley. Preceded by her death were sister Doris Marie Kegel Blanford and brother Earl Thomas Kegel, and surviving are sisters Margaret Louise Kegel Cooke, Cynthia Cay Kegel, and brothers Clarence Kegel Jr., Robert Jay Kegel and

James

David Kegel. She had thirteen grandchildren and thirty-eight great grandchildren.

Anna Mae was a devout Christian. After becoming a Seventh Day Adventist, she devoted her life to prayer and evangelizing others with the word of God. She was an accomplished horsewoman, and in later life enjoyed watching the birds from her home overlooking her lake. She loved to sing, was an avid reader and enjoyed working on complicated crossword puzzles. Anna Mae was a kind, compassionate woman and was admired for her strong moral compass and work ethic, which she passed to her children through her actions.

Her family is honoring her with a private memorial. Her obituary may be found at
